Jacqueline Jase Face & Body Center, LLC. device:

When activated, the device will deliver a low current electrical stimulation, in combination with the application of a topical water, Gel, or lotion, and produces varying levels of electrical stimulation, energy and intensity. Undergoing the therapy will affect the muscles, skin, and circulatory and nervous system. It may affect the functioning of any electrical devices used to treat a medical condition (e.g. pacemaker. See below related to these issues). Some people may find this therapy to be strenuous, uncomfortable, disorienting and/or stressful. Therefore it is recommended that you consult with a physician prior to undergoing therapy.

The live area of electrical stimulation activity is located at the tip of the device being applied to the surface of the skin.

Device Output / Energy Levels / Skin Response

The device applies an electrical stimulation measured between zero and 500 microamps.

Skin irritation or redness are possible, and may be associated with the use of an electronic muscle stimulator. A doctor should be consulted before using any electronic muscle stimulator, in case you have an underlying medical condition, which the electronic muscle stimulator could aggravate. A doctor may also be able to make recommendations as to alternative treatments for the issue, which is driving you to use an electronic muscle stimulator.

Persons using medical devices such as pacemakers, implanted or other electronic nerve, muscle or tissue stimulator, or hearing aids are not recommended to undergo therapy.

Sensitive Medications or Skin Conditions

Certain medications, cosmetics or skin conditions may produce a greater sensitivity to the procedure. It is not recommended to undergo therapy if you have been diagnosed with a physical condition affecting the skin. As for medications or cosmetics, typically, these products feature a warning label to notify you of potential adverse effects. Please consult a physician prior to therapy if you are using any such products or medications or have a history of skin problems or believe yourself to be sensitive.

Waiver & Release Signature of Customer

I expressly acknowledge that my patient use of the therapy is undertaken at their sole risk. Any change in physical activity or routine are done so voluntarily with the complete understanding that they are responsible for all actions and assume all risks of injury, illness, disease or death.
